

Cash

Konbini (convenience store) payments are popular for cash payments in Japan. They enable e-commerce transactions in a culture where cash is one of the most trusted and secure payment methods. With Konbini payments, Japanese consumers can make purchases online and pay with cash at over 50,000 nearby 7-Eleven, Lawson, FamilyMart, Ministop, and Seicomart convenience stores.

Specifications

Coverage

Consumer	Japan
Merchant	Global

Currencies

Consumer	JPY
Processing	JPY
Settlement	JPY

Transactions

Minimum	JPY 1.00
Maximum	JPY 300,000
Timeout	8 days 10 minutes

Features

- ☐ Recurring payments
- ☐ One-click payments
- ☐ Refunds
- ☐ Partial refunds
- ☐ Multiple partial refunds
- ☒ Payment assurance
- ☐ Chargeback risk

Why Konbini?

As 90% of Japanese consumers prefer to pay with cash (Statista) and convenience stores are a part of their daily lives, accepting Konbini payments is a must-have for running a successful e-commerce store in Japan.

Cash payments for online goods, usually using Konbini, account for 9% of all online transactions in Japan (PPRO Almanac).

There are more than 50,000 Konbini stores throughout Japan, which Japanese consumers use to shop, receive deliveries, and many other purposes (Japan Guide).

How it works?

